

WEDNESDAY WORKSHOPS at ATWELL GALLERY

Learning from the Masters Series

Margaret Coxall takes a look at the work of

Vincent van Gogh

“Van Gogh, one of the most loved but possibly a misunderstood artist. We stand in awe of his brushwork and paint handling techniques. Throughout his life he was an avid experimentalist and, in this workshop, I would like to trace some of the different methods he used and how this translated into his artworks.” ... Margaret Coxall

In researching this series, Margaret was fascinated to dive into the artists' stories and struggles, realising that so much of what they were doing was innovative and fresh. In this workshop, she will look closely at the artist's work and the techniques and skills he used.

Come along and enjoy the freedom of those *luscious impasto brushstrokes!
