Adventures in Colour

Peta says

“in this four day workshop we will focus primarily on colour.

We will be painting in a contemporary realist style looking at how we can use colour to give our paintings an edgier look that pushes towards abstraction. We will also look at how we can manipulate other elements of our work such as composition, tone and shape to achieve this end. We will combine this with some 'mark making' using stencils, lino cut and other tools that lead to interesting marks that can add interest to your work. We will work on 2 smaller works and one larger work during the four days and draw inspiration from a number of other artists.

Come ready to explore new ideas and expand on the skills you already have.”

4 days, Monday to Thursday, 22 to 25 January 2018,
